GENERAL REVIEW

Being of a specialist nature Thomas Sample is likely to work in a steady and thorough manner in order to achieve his results. He is hard working and has a great deal of persistence. As such he has the ability to tie up the loose ends and see a job through to conclusion. Due to this need to follow a task through to conclusion he can cope with administrative duties. Thomas Sample is amiable by nature and can communicate with others. He prefers to do business in a friendly way and likes to work as part of a specialist team. Decision making should be based on knowledge and expertise as he may be reluctant and cautious to take action unless he has the necessary information before him. Security is important to Thomas Sample as is a structured working environment and clearly defined work parameters. He has the ability to deal with confrontational issues but in the main prefers to work in a relaxed, friendly environment.

Thomas Sample is likely to be best suited to a role within a specific area of expertise. There should be a need to achieve results in an organised and planned manner. The environment should be of a structured nature and wherever possible free from excessive confrontation.

INTERVIEW HINTS

If however the environment is to be fast moving or confrontational then the interview should speed up and become pressurised. Start to challenge him hard and question his observations. Does he come back strongly with his answers or does he attempt to slow things down to the pace he can cope with?
